

MARIN WATER

2019 Rosé by Pey-Marin Vineyards

GROWN IN MARIN COUNTY

TASTING NOTES | Consistent with the superb precision viticulture the Peys are known for, the grapes for this micro release were immaculate on harvest date. Pale cranberry in color, this dry rosé has delicate red fruit aromas and a zippy, dry finish.

VINEYARD & WINEMAKING | Crafted from old-vine, dry-farmed Pinot Noir grown seven miles from the frigid Marin County coast, this Vintage 2019 was hand-pruned, hand-picked and went through a delicate "champagne" press cycle yielding a meager 150 gallons per ton.

A long, cool, stainless steel fermentation accentuated its delicate aromatics. No oak and no malolactic kept the flavors pure and irresistible with a dry and clean finish.

Producers of the very first dry rosé ever produced in Marin County (2003), the Pey family pioneered premium winegrowing in west Marin over two decades ago, and now celebrates this milestone with this delicious dry rosé.
